

Product Overview

Glass products have always reflected quality and style. This idea lets you develop a customised glass bottle with an individual style. The style and design may reflect a restaurant, hotel or winery image or simply be an original design with a difference. The appearance and style can be communicated by the bottle's shape, size, form, embossed patterns and branding, the bottle can also be produced in a wide range of coloured glass. Usually producing glass products is an extremely expensive process due to the quantity required for production. Our manufacturer can produce lower quantities than any other requirement in the glass industry.

Design & Development

DTech will consult with you through the design and development process to ensure your requirements are met. The glass bottle design could be influenced from elements of your business or any inspiring ideas to customise the design. DTech will carry out the design process using conceptual sketches, computer generated 3D CAD models and rapid prototyping. DTech will provide all necessary design files and information to the manufacturer.

DTech can introduce you to the manufacturer if you wish to communicate directly or DTech can follow up the manufacturing process and assist with logistics if necessary.

Marketing Approach

This product has many positive aspects, not only does the custom designed bottle reflect high quality and style it is also perfect for advertising. It could be used as a promotional marketing product which you can sell, as your customer may want the contents as much as the bottle. This creates a perfect win, win marketing situation, whether your company is a winery, mineral water company, restaurant, hotel, a spa or catering company. This opportunity of customising your own glass bottle will give your company an identity and a competitive edge in the market.

Alternative Glass Products

Our manufacturer can produce various glass products such as glass jars, vases, bowls and solid glass objects.

DTech can design and develop any glass product you require, whether it's a standard jar with embossed text, a vase designed with elegance or a unique glass product designed to be purely eye catching. Design elements and branding will assure a competitive edge in your company's product market.
